

Biographical Profile

A native of Tucson, Arizona, Rhonda Woodward developed a love for the Regency Romance genre as a teen, while growing up in Phoenix.

A Spinster's Luck is the first in a series of three Regency Romance titles by Woodward to be published by Signet in 2002-03.

An avid researcher and student of the evolution of both domestic and English social etiquette, her work frequently addresses themes relating to her characters' feelings and behaviors juxtaposed with the norms and expectations of the day.

Rhonda is also an orchid grower and member of the Board of Directors of the Arizona Orchid Society, a group that promotes growing orchids as a hobby and provides free botanical training to various organizations schools throughout the metropolitan Phoenix area.

She lives in Phoenix with her occasionally romantic husband, William, and their little Pomeranian, Vivian.
